The New York Council Navy League (NYNL) of the United States

If you know anything about Kingsborough Community College (KCC), or even if you have simply seen photographs of the campus, then you know that the college's identity is inextricably linked to the sea. Founded in 1963, KCC occupies a Brooklyn peninsula that once hosted the Sheepshead Bay Maritime Training Center for Merchant Marines, Coast Guard and Navy and the Manhattan Beach Air Force Station. The sea flows through the college's DNA, and is most evident in the college's stellar Maritime Technology Program, the only program of its kind in the five boroughs.

It was only fitting, then, that in 2021, KCC would join NY4(ows)TJE00.00000912 0 612 92 reWB73 12 Tf1 0 0 1 problem head-on, allowing maritime graduates to overcome financial roadblocks and hit the ground running in their careers.

As long as there is a need for talented, trained,
